DEATH OF DR. THOS. B. HOOD

Passed Away This Morning at His Residence.

Burial Probably at Arlington-His Long and Busy Career Here and Elsewhere.

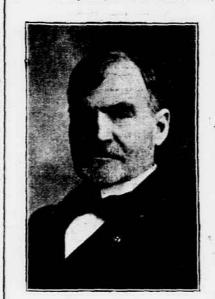

Dr. Thomas B. Hood died this morning at his residence, No. 1017 O street northwest. He had been in ill health for a number of months past, but owing to his great vitality his system had been able to

Since last fall he has been confined to his home, and while much weakened he has still been able to be about the house during the greater part of each day. Since Sunday last he failed quite rapidly, and the end came this morning. The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made, but it is expected that the interment will be at Arlington. A widow and one son, Mr. James F. Hood, survive him.

Dr. Hood was born at Fairview, Ohio March 19, 1829, where his early boyhood was passed. When a mere boy he went to work in a store of a relative, devoting the hours after business to reading and study. The opportunity came later on to study. The opportunity came later on to attend school, and at the age of eighteen he entered the preparatory department of the Ohio Wesleyan University.

His plans to take a full college course were interfered with by the necessity of attending to some business matters for his father. Subsequently he went to Baltimore, Md., where he read medicine and atten a course of lectures. He began the practice of medicine at Gratiot, Perry county, Ohio. Here he was married, and shortly after the birth of his son his wife died. He removed to Columbus, Ohio, where he married Mary E. Hyde, who survives him.

At the outbreak of the civil war he voluntered his services and was must rated in the

At the outbreak of the civil war he volunteered his services and was mustered in the army as assistant surgeon of the 76th Regiment of Ohio Volunteers. His health giving away in October, 1862, he resigned from the service, but in the following year reentered the army, and served during the war, being mustered out in October, 1896. He returned to Newark, Ohio, to resurne the practice of his profession. In the year 1867 he was invited to Washington to assist in the collaboration and editing of the war records of the provost marshal general's office. He continued in this work until June 1, 1874, when he was appointed reclical referce of the pension office, a posi-medical referce of the pension office, a posi-tion which he held for eleven years. He then resigned and engaged in private prac-tice, which he continued with great success up to the time of his final illness.

During his long residence in this city Dr. Hood was identified with many local interests. He was a professor in the medical department of Howard University; vestryman of St. Andrew's parish, trustee of the industrial Home School, chaplain of the District of Columbia Commandery and Military Order of the Loyal Legion, and director of the Ohio National Bank.

Respect to His Memory.

The medical department of Howard University adjourned today until Monday next in respect to the memory of Prof. Thomas B. Hood, who had been dean of the department for many years.

The sale of seats began this morning for Mildred Holland's engagement in the new romantic play, lyrically named "Aria." It evolves the story of Austria in the latter end of the eighteenth century, and was written by Theodore Kremer, who based his story on Schiller's classic "Kabale und Liebe." The title of "Aria" is obtained from the name of the heroine, being the daughter of a musician, who has written daughter of a musician, who has written a successful aria for the violin. "Arla" enloyed its first presentation last Monday evening in Buffalo, where it met with conevening in Buffaio, where it met with considerable success, the press indorsing it with an eminent degree of praise. It will take thirty-five people to play it, and the cast is an excellent one, comprising A. S. Lipman, Bertha Creighton, Newton Chisnell, Robert Fisher, George Paxton, Robert McWade and Frances Brooke.

Court Changes Prescription.

Richard Beare, an elderly colored man, whose home is in Southeast Washington, was a prisoner in Judge Scott's court this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct. The complaint against him was that he was drunk and the policeman thought he hardly

THE DE PACHMANN RECITAL,-The ecital given at the Columbia Theater yes terday afternoon by the Russian planist Vladimir De Pachmann, was an extremely enjoyable affair. It was given under the auspices of the Damrosch Society, and the attendance was large. Much enthuslasm was shown by the audience, who seemed disposed to be pleased in every respect. De Pachmann's mannerisms were more mani-Pachmann's mannerisms were more manifest yesterday that at his visit last fall, and it seemed to take him some time to warm up to his work. As a result of his whim or mood, or whatever it may be called, he failed to give satisfaction to the musicians in the audience in his opening number, Beethoven's Waldstein Sonata, a great work and deserving the interpretation of a great plants. In anis composition De Pachmannn displayed a carelessness and a lack of spirit and vigor that were in strong contrast with the rest that were in strong contrast with the rest of his work. He pulled himself together, however, and gave the Schubert Im-promptu with discretion and taste, as well promptu with discretion and taste, as well as the Schumann Sonata in G minor. It was when he reached his Chopin group, however, that he was at his best, and easily proved his title to the greatest interpreter of the works of the Polish composer. He brings out the poetic sentiment as does no other planist, and his effects in planissimo passages are remarkable. His Chopin numbers included the Nocturne in D flat, the "Black Key" Etude, two preludes, the Mazurka in F minor and the "Third Ballade." The audience was intensely interested in this group and liberally applauded each selection. The proally applauded each selection. The pro-gram closed with Von Weber's "Invitation a la Danse," which was played with ex-quisite feeling and discretion, and which so captivated his hearers that the applause did not cease until De Pachmann returned did not cease until De Pachmann returned to the piano and played Chopin's "Funeral March." The Damrosch Society is to be congratulated upon its concerts this season. It has brought here Marie Brema and De Pachmann, two artists of high reputation, and at its closing concert in May it will present Sig. Campanari, one of the best baritones now before the public. At that concert the society itself will be heard in both solo and concerted work, and that will be welcome news to those who know what good work its members can do.

THE SAENGERBUND.-Next Sunday right the Washington Saengerbund gives its concluding public concert of the season at the National Theater. This concert will be notable on account of the assisting artists who have been engaged. Mme. Clementine De Vere of the Grau Opera Company, soprano; Mr. David Mannes of New York, violinist, and Mr. S. Munroe Fabian, York, violinist, and Mr. S. Munroe Fablan, planist, will provide the solo numbers. Mine. De Vere has been heard here frequently, and always with pleasure. Mr. Mannes is a brother-in-law of Walter Damresch, and at the coming concert will use the celebrated Maggini violin which the late Dr. Leopold Damrosch used to play, and Mr. Fablan has a recognized standing as a pinnist.
